Town Council and School Board—
A Full Slate of Candidates

There are three vacancies on the council board for the town council and school board. Indeed it is years since there was such an array of candidates forward, and the Herald congratulates the citizens for which they are taking in municipal affairs.

There are three vacancies on the council board—Messrs. Bowker Reid and Wyman are the new candidates for the town council and the school board. The first two seats to election will be held in the fall, the third in January. The names forward are Messrs. J. W. O'Brien, H. J. Rees, H. E. Penfleton and J. A. Marshall.

For the school board, Mr. E. Hinckley and A. Marshall retire, the former seeking re-election, and the new candidates are T. J. Durkin, C. James and F. B. Edwards.

Men's day should be an epoch making day in the town, and every elector should make a point of going to the polls and recording their votes.

Buckhorn

Last Lake seems to be quite a pleasure resort these days. The old folk of Buckhorn are the ones who frequent visits, staying the frequent visits, staying the night.

Many are being initiated into the skating business.

A large crowd turned out to the annual ball for the first time in a very delightful and successful time was had under the management of Miss Sarah Riley and Miss Marion Collier at Crystal Spring Hall on Nov. 26th. It is to be hoped that it will prove to be a novel but social lots of fun in the foot-guessing contest, many indulged in the home made and pop corn booth, the dancing, the singing, the playing of good music by the McBethers orchestra, and our purse was really bulging before the evening was spent and with the singing of "We Are Loyal" still deeply etched in the ears of the visitors from other districts who had come forward to make the evening a glorious success.

Quite a large campment of Indians, en route for Bear Lake on a fishing expedition and hunting, passed through the district on Friday. They will return in two weeks time and will be selling fish in the night market.

Things are getting quite lively at the gym class on Thursdays. On the 21st the relay race and horse race were quite the feature of the evening. The weather was in a good time coming, boys and girls did not give up if you do feel a bit stiff, that will wear off.

It's good to live in Sunny Alberta these days. Money cannot buy happiness, but a few cold, chilly blasts, but it is good to have a healthy, delicious weather and feel life is really worth living.

No Canadian Wheat for the States

Washington, Dec. 6.—The bills introducing tariff duties of 4¢ a bushel on imports of wheat and $1.80 a barrel on flour were introduced in the House of Representatives by Rep. Tincher, Republican, Kansas. The bills, Mr. Tincher said, were designed to prevent the flooding of the United States market with wheat from Canada and other countries. Mr. Tincher also introduced a bill to prevent speculating on futures to grain and cotton except by bona fide contract makers.

The entertainment was given by Miss McLean and Miss Lockie.

Men's day should be an epoch making day in the town, and every elector should make a point of going to the polls and recording their votes.

The evening's doings took the form of a fancy dress ball, and it was a complete success in every detail. The dresses were gorgeous and unique in the extreme, and the atmosphere in which the various rooms in hall was decorated added much to the success. A detailed account would take columns, suffice to say that the dresses—many from outside points of the country—were a debt of gratitude to the hostesses for the evening's enjoyment.

Such entertainments are exceedingly popular, and go far to lighten the task of the staff, who have such exacting and trying duties.

When it became known that Miss Esther T. In the high extremity in which she is held in the community, as a result, the use of the town hall being reserved for the purpose, and the mayor and council, and on Friday evening a gathering of over 100 friends met to do her honor.

The evening was a very happy one, the program being opened until midnight. A sumptuous supper was served by the ladies, and during the evening Rev. HENRY WINNETT.

Parliament and Legislature

The task of framing a constitution for the Dominion of Canada was undertaken but at the time when the United States was engaged in a civil and death struggle between the forces of the North and the Southern Confederacy. The war of secession arose out of the issue of States' rights, individual States claiming and asserting their right to the exercise of certain autonomous rights and powers and charging interference and usurpation of those rights and powers by the Federal authority at Washington.

With the exception of a dispute over States' rights before them, the fathers of the Canadian Constitution framed a constitution with the underlying idea of creating a strong and powerful Federal authority, rather than the development of strong Provinces. Consequently, the constitution of Canada is based on the reverse principle to that which was recognized in framing the constitution of the United States.

By the constitution of the big American republic, all powers not expressly granted to the Federal Government to be exercised by the respective States in Canada, on the other hand, all powers not expressly conferred upon the Provinces are reserved to the Federal Government.

This marked difference in the underlying principle of the constitutions of the two countries leads to misunderstanding of the powers and functions of Provincial Governments on the part of new settlers in this country from across the border. As a result, requests and demands are made on the Provincial Governments which it is not within their power and jurisdiction to grant.

It is manifestly impossible in a brief article to attempt even a bare enumeration of the exclusive powers conferred by the British North America upon the Dominion Parliament, on the one hand, and Provincial Legislatures on the other hand. Such is it to say that matters of a general character, and relating to the welfare of the whole nation, to those which are of an interprovincial nature, are reserved exclusively to Parliament.

These include trade and commerce, navigation and shipping, both sea coast and inland fisheries, postal service, military, naval and all matters connected with national defence, the criminal law, weights and measures, banks, banking, currency and coinage, etc., etc. The Dominion Parliament has the power to raise its revenues in proportion to the way it spends its money, and to impose taxes on both direct and indirect ways.

Provincial Legislatures, on the other hand, are restricted to the raising of money by direct taxation within the Province, the imposition of license fees, by borrowing on the sole credit of the Province, and through the management of such natural resources or local works and undertakings as they may possess.

In legislation, the Provinces have jurisdiction over all local and municipal incorporation of companies with Provincial objects, provincial and civil rights, and so on, and generally all matters of a merely local or private nature in the Province.

In regard to education, the Provinces have control, subject, however, to certain restrictions, and in the event of a Province not having respect for these limitations on its authority, the Dominion Parliament has the right to interfere and amend remedial legislation concerning an established educational system.

This legislation, however, applies only to the public schools and the private schools and the clerics and preachers which by law are enjoined Roman Catholic or Protestant ministrations respectively.

This restriction upon the power of the Provinces to control education, the Canadian industry would inevitably suffer from an inadequate supply of coal unless some provision for such an emergency were made by governmental authorities.

The Canadian industry, at the present time, the effect on Ontario, from an industrial standpoint, would be apalling, he said.

North Dakota Banks Close Down

Fifteen Banks Have Now Shut Down Due to Depleted Resources.

Bismarck, N.D.—Three more North Dakota banks closed their doors late today, due to depleted resources, bringing the total to such a point that there will be no more for 14 days to 15. Those shutting down today were the State Bank of Adrian, the State Bank of Donnybrook, and the State Bank of Giblerville, in the Renville county.

Earlier in the day it was reported that the State Bank of Mobell did not open for business today. It was the tenth bank closed.

The State Bank examiner, C. E. Lofus, announced that no receivers are being appointed for the banks, and an officer of one bank has been named a special deputy examiner to have charge of the institution. Lofus said he expected many of the banks would reopen when the financial situation improves.

Officials of the Bank of North Dakota arranged yesterday to meet with a committee of nine bankers, appointed at a conference yesterday of bankers and county officials held in Mandan, to discuss a centralization of the Bank of North Dakota assurance that county officials will not make heavy demands on the State Bank for funds when the law permitting the withdrawal of public funds from the bank becomes effective on December 21.

Must Use Western Coal

Mining Engineer Says Dependence on U.S. Would Be Dangerous.

"The utilization of western coal in Ontario" was the subject of a timely address delivered by James McEvoy, a well-known mining engineer and geologist, before the Mining and Mineralogical Club of the University of Toronto.

Mr. McEvoy began by declaring that in the event of serious labor trouble in the American coal fields, or of other causes, the importation of coal from the United States and Canada, Canadian industry would inevitably suffer from an inadequate supply of coal unless some provision for such an emergency were made by governmental authorities.

This limitation on the power of the Provinces to control education, the Canadian industry would inevitably suffer from an inadequate supply of coal unless some provision for such an emergency were made by governmental authorities.

Big Increase in Trade.

An increase of $31,972,125 is shown in the figures for the grand total of Canadian trade for October, 1930, as far as the Royal Bank is concerned.

The increase for the seven months of the fiscal year ending October 31, 1930, compared with the same period last year is $252,147.

In the first seven months of this fiscal year, the value of coal exported was $1,117,597.49, against 1,497,684.71 for the first seven months in 1929.

Ride At Own Risk.

A jointed Argentine Court, Justice Antonio de Leon Island, City, N.Y., has decided that girls who are apt to ride in automobiles of strangers do so at their own risk. The high standard of quality of our British electrical machinery and equipment, the latest factories were "converted", from mechanical to electrical service. In this connection, the latest news of electricity, the latest report of the Electric Inspector of British factories shows that there were actually fewer accidents during the year following the war than there were in the year preceding the war. A regular account is not kept, but it is obtained from surrounding farms in exchange for the fertilizer from the oil in the soil and care with which it is applied.

The report also notes an increase in the number of boys employed in the oil fields, while certain clouds spotted here and there, with occasional patches of blue. For a number of years, however, the colored birds have been gradually ousted until nearly all are now white.

Final reports on United States army casualties in the war are contained in the annual report of Surgeon General Ireland, showing 34,249 killed and 224,089 wounded.

A Great Pigeon Farm Fewer Electrical Accidents

100,000 Birds in Los Angeles Newly All Snow White.

What is claimed to be the largest pigeon farm in the world is located at Los Angeles, California. At the present count there are flocks for more than 100,000 of the birds, and every nest is occupied, with numbers of the birds roosting on poles and in trees, especially near the places where they are fed.

Another matter over which legislation and legal differences of opinion have arisen between the Dominion and the Provinces is as to ownership and control of natural resources within a Province. A brief history of this question will constitute the basis of our next article.

Message from King George

Is Read at Service in New York in Memory of Landing of Pilgrims.

A message of greeting from King George, and an address by General Robert George Neville, French hero, featured commemorative services in Carondelet Hall by the American Legion, to mark the Pilgrim tercentenary. The King's message, which was read by Sir Andrew Geddes, British ambassador, said: "I trust you gladly honoring memory is that of the Mayflower, whose name is still the symbol of the abiding virtues of America."

Arbor ladies were in charge of the Rest Rooms Saturday, and served an excellent lunch. It was pleasing to note the liberal patronage they had. Just such work in Rest Rooms will soon be out of date. It's wonderful what women do when they get their heads together.

A moving picture entertainment was given at the hospital Thursday evening before some 100 inmates. Some seven or eight cases were shown, and the patients were highly delighted with the entertainment.

The following is going the round, it is said to be a true story. One citizen had been imbibing a little too well, and fell on the slippery floor, lying down in a crouching way, remarked—

"The wicked standard in slippery places," and the reply came—"Yah! How the d— can they do it, I fall down."

The sale of lands for arrears of taxes in Fortino Valley Municipal District No. 429, will be continued at the Town Hall, Ponoka, on Saturday, December 4th at two o'clock p.m.

ELLEN.—On Saturday, December 4th, to Mr and Mrs W. Ellen, a daughter.

IRLAND.—On Friday, December 3rd, to Mr and Mrs Harry Irland a son.

While plowing a roadway on his farm, south of town, the other day, Howard E. Russell came upon a human skeleton. The police were notified, and an investigator called. Medical opinion is that the remains are those of a male Indian of about sixty years of age, but death must have taken place many years ago.

Wednesday evening of last week our district was visited by a heavy rain, which turned into ice, with the result that the streets and roads are extremely slippery, and travel is something of a problem. Notwithstanding the weather has been delightful, and with almost half of the winter gone there is much to be thankful for.

Mr and Mrs H. B. Kylar have returned from their visit to Nebraska, having spent several pleasant months. When they arrived in the south times were cool and prosperous, but before they left a marked change had taken place. Prices had fallen, work scarce, and discontent very marked. Farmers who bought high-priced land, especially, are in a bad way.

She put her arm about the boy's shoulders. "You don't know what company Davis is, and it's scarcely dark yet. No, I don't want anybody else—no, no, no!"

Then, silent again, the two arms drew down the path that stretched like a ribbon across the hillside. The lad talked to her in his strange language and she let him go on without a word. The girl was silent, but for her heart was heavy with a great fear. They reached the creek path and followed it down to the deep creek bed beneath the moon.

The lad laughed and swept his arms wide, then stopped suddenly, his migrating flock of put-tals sang out and died away high above them. They will wake up and uttered his plaintive call from a nearby copse. Davis immediately understood the meaning of the night-birds' awake and made the world alive with sound.

"Do you know who has got the owl and from the awl the feathers, the proulers of the night answered him. He clapped his hands and said, "Gosh, I'm tightish about them, 'Oh, Davis,'" she whispered, "but I like the birds—glad and—Are you going to be a wonder? I am to be a wonder? I am, Davis?"

"Betty," he said, "Buy cholesterol, it's awful sick. We think she won't live long." I just thought I'd tell her."

"Do you know we're going to lose her?" said the girl chokingly. "Yes, you both."

When they reached the fork in the trail Old Davis put out his hand to the boy's arm. Then she bent and kissed him.

Davis went on along to Gramma's now, she said, "and he can come over to see boy tomorrow."

Davis put his hand to his tip of the nose and closed his eyes to listen. From a far-off swale there came an answering cry of owls. The boy's eyes opened wide and darted away through the grass. "Gosh, standing here like this," he said, "I'm so sweet to-night with a new patch, prayed,

"To God, who looks after Davis. Look after the God, then, leaving him to stand by the rough bark of a beech tree, she sobbed:

"Mother, let her go with us. It's longer—just a little longer."

CHAPTER XVIII.

Old BETSY.

Davis lived with an aged grandfather, a small but strong man, at the edge of the bayou. She was a very old woman. Her frames were thin and fragile, but she had everything in the world except, indeed, it was Davis, and on him she had a very strong hold. It was thought that she had been born that she sometimes beat the daffy chit. Nobody knew exactly how old she was, but she little about her to his coming. The daffy of her daughter and the daffy child had a very strong hold. There was a path worn between the bayou and the house beneath the wicket. Old Bill Pashley, the old grandfather, had grave by the path that was kept treaded down both winter and summer.

Old BETSY was highly re-spected here. It was said that she was versed in witchcraft and was in league with the devil. She was a whicker behind her meat and rents and such other necessities as she required, but she never took all for the child. In their rough way, they pitied the bayou; some of them even pitied Old BETSY. Old BETSY spoke to no one, unless it was to curse them, and she went abroad in her wheelbarrow, to gather the herbs she brewed. Then, every evening, she would visit the homes of those who were kind to her.

Old BETSY lay yellow and swollen, dying from the bite of a snake. Betty had bolted into the house, her iron-gray hair flying with the falling rain. Without so much as a word she had forced a black liquid between the teeth of the snake. "Bill, Bill," she said, before Bill Pashley, the Big Mac, could speak. Bill got well, and the Bushwhackers whispered among themselves in superstitious awe of Old BETSY's watchword. One other time a child lay ill with a high fever. Old BETSY lay beside the child and all night long sat beside the little sufferer. The long gossips well and everywheres, whispered the Bushwhackers.

Old BETSY was aware that she looked like the Devil. The Evil One, she gave no sign. It bothered her none, whatever. She stayed within the dark corners of her house, where she cooked a clay pipe, and blasphemed to her heart's content.

To old Davis she paid not the slightest attention. But often when

The Control of Natural Resources

Premier Stewart of Alberta Says
Each Western Province Should Protect Own Coal

"One of the first things we should have done is to have a law to prevent the transfer of natural resources. If this fails let me seek justice elsewhere," declared Premier Charles Stewart, of Alberta, in discussing at Winnipeg yesterday the proposed negotiations for the transfer of natural resources from Federal to Provincial control.

Premier Stewart thinks each province should present its own case to the transfer of natural resources. If this fails let me seek justice elsewhere," declared Premier Charles Stewart, of Alberta, in discussing at Winnipeg yesterday the proposed negotiations for the transfer of natural resources from Federal to Provincial control.

The powder-white frost lay like a blanket upon the unprotected glades of the west, and a sharp north wind of snowing in the first swaying gust of morning, when Mr. McTavish, of the Glenbow Ranch, stood gazing toward the lone hut against the tangle of brown spruce trees. "It's a good day," he said, "to bring out the child. I'll bring him back to you when he's a bit older. Look, look, and away he goes."

"He's off to the west," he said, "and the night-birds have made the world alive with sound."

He turned away as the doors slammed shut. "I'll go in and get him," he said, "and bring him back to you."

The dog snarled among the frost, barking furiously, and then crossed the open and knocked at the door. It opened quickly, and the master, holding a lantern, stood looking out. "It's a good day," he said, "to bring out the child. I'll bring him back to you when he's a bit older. Look, look, and away he goes."

From the Diary of A Hudson's Bay Clerk in the Seventies

PASSING THE SPRING OUT
By O-G-MAS-ES (Little Clerk).

(Copyrighted)

My last article ended with the death of Wondago, that notorious Bulshad who was always dead.

The Pas itself has now become well known as about the centre of one of the largest muskrat swamps in the west, and rats mean minks, but for fine fur such as martens, fisher, lynx and bear, the bush country around the Mountain (Prairie Hills) and here two bands of Indians divided the country into hunting grounds. One of these was headed by O-G-Mas-As, who was on friendly terms with the Company, but when Company is written it then means the Hudson's Bay Co. and most of whose followers were Christians. The other hand had a leader Kiy-a-thessah, and they were all still poor, but long ago had sold their land to the Lord, like Ninety of old. They were on bad terms with the Company at this time and had a resident free-trader living there named Daniel, from Red River.

I tackled the Chief one night, after passing the spring at the Pas, to let me know if he had a half a bushel of rice to trade. He said "No" and held forth as the half a bushel of rice was the best prospect of reconciliation with Ki-yay-the-sah. Finally I obtained his consent, but he insisted on getting a half a bushel of rice when I paid him. It was then when Company is written it then means the Hudson's Bay Co. and most of whose followers were Christians. The other hand had a leader Kiy-a-thessah, and they were all still poor, but long ago had sold their land to the Lord, like Ninety of old. They were on bad terms with the Company at this time and had a resident free-trader living there named Daniel, from Red River.

The plan was that we were to leave The Pas about the 20th of March with two trading dogs and part of the outfit. Two dogs could not haul as long as a sleigh was used. Then we were to get two larch-boat canoes built up there and return to the Pas about the end of May when the fur season ended. In the meantime we were to go to the Pas and those distant amounts. My horse time dragged, but at last the day for departure came and we made a start, camping at Birch River the night. Next day we reached O-saw-saw camp in good time. The trail was broken and kind and fit, very flattened to have a Company's clerk camped beside him. He styled me Non-is-in (or Grandson). We had a long hard day of smoked carbon skin from Lee or Borden. Fresh spruce boughs was constantly put down in the tent for a seat. Our trading goods were all piled at the back, but didn't have to be stored higher than Hamer's for trading was done in the same caravans. Next day I left Pierre and an Indian boy back for two more loads and I busied myself calling at the various camps, trading where possible and hunting where possible.

On the 20th of May when we were still far out on their hunting grounds and whold only come in on the last ice, so I did not intend taking them until open water. The first week we had great arctic driving snow and sleet was the Indian and the snow was heavy. It has been a matter of great satisfaction to me ever since that I started my life. To be Continued in Next Issue.

Vancouver, B.C.—With reference still to the standing of the parties in the provincial election, it is given as: Twenty-three Liberals, thirteen Conservatives, seven Independents, two Labor and one Socialist. The Liberals and Conservatives were returned to the Legislature, while the Socialists were defeated. Oliver, heading the poll in the capital with 6,474, Canon Hincliffe, Conservative, with 3,84, ran second; Hon. John Hart, member of finance, polled 4,887, and Clouston, liberal, 4,303.

Manitoba Farmers Independent Party

Winnipeg.—Wm. Robson, leader of the Farmers' Party in the Provincial Legislature, claims that he was "entirely unopposed" on November 22, when he was reported as having said that he and his party had agreed to support the Norris Government for one year.

The Farmers' Party in the Legislature would continue its absolute independence, he said.

London Bank Robbery.

London, Ont.—London experienced another bank robbery when a gang of masked bandits held up the Southwicks branch of the Merchants' Bank. The thieves secured $700 and made their escape in a high-powered motor car.

The manager and teller were beaten against the wall. The police started in pursuit immediately after being notified of the robbery.

Grand Sweepstakes for Wheat

Western Canada Makes Notable Showing at Big International Exhibition.

Chicago.—At the International Show in the grain and meat class, J. C. Mitchell, of Dakota, won the grand sweepstakes for wheat, all kinds, at more than 200 cents.

There were 25 prizes offered in the class for hard wheat, and 20 in the class for Western Canada, Saskatchewan getting a goodly number of platings besides the first.

The highest of these, fifth, by Seager Wheeler, of Redfern, J. C. Cleary, of Lethbridge, got fourth in the grain and meat class.

In the time of stress and strain in the city a great many firms in a great series of offices across a continent, all linked up in one, came to the rescue, and were greatly pleased to do any office in time of need.

Coal Shortage

W. R. Cumming, President of the Drouillard Board of Trade, who says the shortage of coal in West is due to shortage of railroad cars.

Strength of Our Canadian Banking System

Stability Is Shown In Time Of Stress And Strain.

During the past few days no less than fifteen banks have been closed in the adjoining state of North Dakota.

The suspension of these institutions has created in the districts they served an amount of trouble and loss, which business men will readily appreciate.

It is pointed out that if the United States had the Canadian system of banking, which is the British system developed to its greatest perfection in Scotland, these failures would not have occurred.

There are five simple ways to tell good tea.

First, by the bright copper color of the tea when steeped.

Second, by the exquisite aroma.

Third, by the delicate, light, refreshing flavor.

Fourth, by the satisfying richness.

Fifth, by the economic strength.

Make a brewing and you will find all these qualities combined in Red Rose.

Tight Skirt Is Really Ancient. The modern sheath skirt is a revival of a very ancient fashion. A statue in the Louvre, Paris, shows an Egyptian Queen wearing a 6,000-year-old gown cut low in the neck, with sleeves stopping well short of the elbow, and with a skirt that fits even more closely than the tight skirts of today.

To Overthrow the German Government

Monarchist Plot Rumors Are Not Being Taken As Serious.

Andrew Bonar Law, the Government leader, answering a question in the British House of Commons, said that not much importance was attached to recent rumors that the former German Crown Prince was communicating with the leaders of the monarchial party in Prussia, with the object of overthrowing the present German Government and restoring the old Empire. He thought the National Government would interpret its responsibilities regarding Frederick William very seriously.

The British Government, added Mr. Law, would not take up the matter with the Government of the Netherlands.

Diving Rods

Have Been Pretty Thoroughly Discredited After Many Tests.

We are inclined to accept with reserve the report that has just been issued by the Hydrophone Department, which has decided to test the value of water-divining in its African colonies and has appointed a number of hazel-twig experts as members of a scientific commission, consisting otherwise of geologists, surveyors, to help in the search for water in the desert. The diving rod has been pretty thoroughly discredited by consistent non-performance in the country during which superlative beliefs in its efficacy has prevailed. The hydrophones, however, those who settled in the little watered sections, were familiar with it. If the diving rod had had half the power that used to be claimed for it, the country would now be dotted with flowing wells and rich mines—Portland Oregonian.

Knows How to Fatten Cattle.

Two-year-old Will Eddie, of Lacombe, will win between $700 and $800 as the result of his uncanny ability to fatten young cattle. He was given an animal to enter in the competition at the Alberta Stock Show in Lethbridge last April and since he had added $30 pounds to its weight. It now tips the scales at 2,100 pounds and is growing fast. The dishing has been done entirely by the boy and his father does not know what feed or what proportions are being used.

CHILDHOOD CONSTIPATION

Constipation—that disordered state of the digestive tract which is nearly always caused by impaired feeding, especially by failure to digest Baby's Own Tablets. Baby's Own is a mild but thorough laxative, which is entirely free from injurious drugs. Consider them Mrs. John Dion, Ste. 200, 23rd Street, Lethbridge, and help for Baby's Own Tablets.

When my baby was three months old I was unable to get him to eat, but the Tablets soon set him right and now at the age of fifteen months is a strong, healthy, happy baby. They are a true sample of headless and tailless babies. Further inquiries reveal the fact that the discovery may be extremely valuable. This, however, can only be definitely ascertained after tests have been carried out over a period of some years.

With the Australian line established, Captain George M. Shantz Marine Limited will next branch out from trade Vancouver to India, followed by Oriental lines and next with ships to the United Kingdom.
